

Project Need

- By approximately 2022, load on existing transmission lines serving the Tysons and McLean areas are projected to exceed 300 Mega-Watts (MW)
- Could result in a violation of mandatory North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC) Reliability standards
- Potential impact to service

