LEARN MORE ABOUT THE YARDLEY RIDGE TRANSMISSION PROJECT

Northern Virginia Electric Cooperative (NOVEC) has requested new electric transmission facilities to support the growth in energy demand on their distribution system.

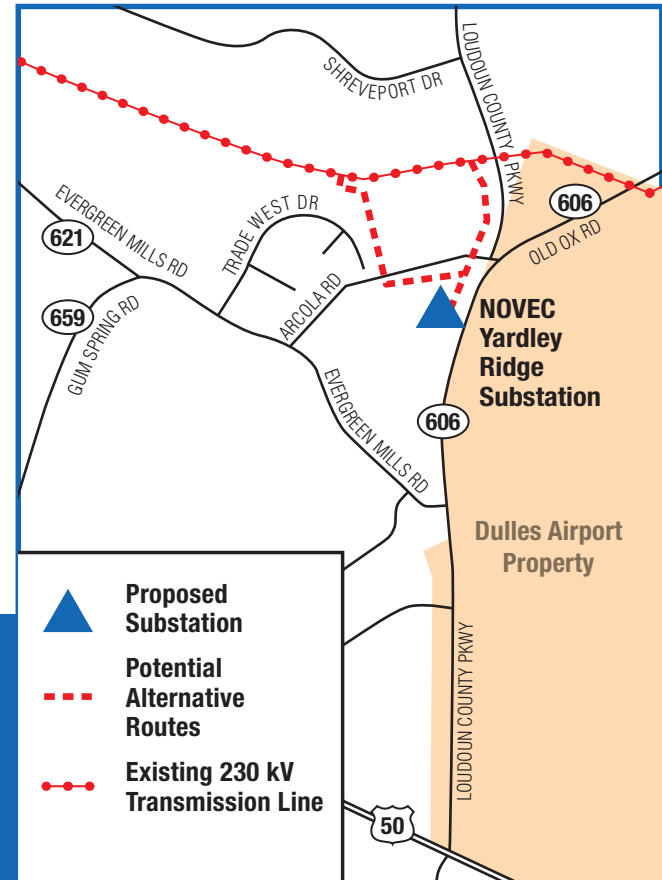

As a result, Dominion is proposing to construct a new 230 kilovolt (kV) double circuit transmission line to supply power to NOVEC's proposed Yardley Ridge Substation. The proposed transmission line is planned to be approximately .5 miles with new right of way width of 100 feet north of Arcola Rd. west of Rt. 606.

We want to give the surrounding community an opportunity to learn more and ask questions during a come-when-you-can information session. No presentation will be given, please feel free to come by at your convenience to discuss the project with Dominion experts.
